

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

IN VACATION.

His Offense.—Prisoner (stuttering painfully)—“Tz-tz-tz-st-st-st!”

Magistrate—“Dear, dear, what’s he charged with, constable?”

Constable—“Sounds like soda water, your worship.”—Everybody’s Weekly.

On Probation.—“Senator, why don’t you unpack your trunk? You’ll be in Washington for six years.” “I don’t know about that. My state has the recall.”—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Recall.—Hanging around in the western city the tourist discovered a former mayor dancing a jig, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

“You seem in fine spirits,” he suggested.

“I am,” answered the other. “I have just been recalled.”

“I don’t see anything complimentary about that,” said the tourist.

“Oh, yes, there is,” the westerner insisted. “This is the second recall.”

“How is that?”

“Well, you see, I was recalled, and then they recalled the recall.”

The following facetiæ, having gone across the water and passed the English sense of humor, may be put down as good.

The Green Bag prints the following:

“In a Jacksonville court,” said a Florida Congressman, a “lawyer quoted Shakspeare—‘Who steals my purse steals trash’—to a deaf judge.

“‘What’s that?’ the judge demanded.

“‘“Who steals my purse steals trash,”’ the lawyer repeated. “‘Twas something, nothing; ’twas mine, ’tis his and has been slave”’—

“‘Louder! I can’t hear you!’ said the judge irritably.

At this point the crier thought it time to interfere. He bent over the judge and shouted in his ear:

“‘He just says, sir, that anybody what steals his pocketbook won’t get nothing.’”

Speaker (warming to his subject): “What we want is men with convictions, and where shall we find them?”

Voice: “In jail, guv’nor!”—Law Students’ (Eng.) Journal.